Meſſieurs EDES & GILL,

P. D. in the laſt Evening-Poſt tells his readers, that it is cauſe of concern, to the good people of this Province, that a party in it, has by their artful and repeated efforts, raiſed and fixed in the populace, a dangerous political enthuſiaſm. People unacquainted with the low ſtate of court finances, might wonder at ſuch a ſapleſs, ſpiritleſs and indeterminate introduction to a political eſſay, and read a little on to find ſome inſtances of the art, intrigue, management, corruption or bribery of this party; but nothing of this! From hence their curioſity would proceed in ſearch of ſome general or particular deſcription of theſe rocks, ſhallows, or quickſands, on which the Gundelo of this Province is like to be ſtranded; and this thro' favor in the 23d line we find to be a promotion of that ſame dangerous enthuſiaſm; and that the ſemper idem of this beautiful and inſtructive writer may annually glad the hearts of his admirers, we have the black liſt diſh'd up again, and without fee or reward from us the common readers, in a direct manner, we have P. D's opinion that our publick affairs, (very probably a large grant for the ſoldiers) have been much embarraſs'd by theſe veterans, who have diſtinguiſhed themſelves by their oppoſition to governors and acts of parliament. This indeed appears cauſe of concern to P. D. to the governor, lieutenant-governor, ſecretary, commiſſioners, and all the incumbents and expectants from an American revenue, who being in modern phraſe the better ſort, are properly P. D's country, and the good people of this province he deſires to ſerve. The dangerous enthuſiaſm therefore, which, the obnoxious party has raiſed and fixed, may by pretty fair deduction be ſuppoſed a reluctance in the common herd, the populace, generouſly to part with all their earnings to gratify the governor, commiſſioners, &c. and thus promote a more pacific ſpirit not diſpoſed to contend with that upright, immaculate body, "the parliament of Great-Britain, and his Majeſty." P. D. being a veteran in politics, knows that the terms, rights and liberties, power of parliament, &c. have not been ſavory ſounds, theſe ten years in the purlieus of St. James's; and what man of the leaſt portion of loyalty or good breeding would for the tranſient ſufferings of hunger and nakedneſs, affront his betters? And now, Meſſrs. Printers, having given ſomething of a diſcriminate view of the parties, and the ends they reſpectively perſue; i. e. one, to retain the property he acquires by his honeſt induſtry, and, beſides what he judges proper to contribute towards the common protection, to apply it to the comfort of himſelf and family, the ſupport of the goſpel, and maintainance of the unable to do for themſelves; the other, to take at diſcretion, whatever they think the people will bear, without inſurrection, and ſquander it on whores, pimps, informers, dogs, horſes, and every kind of maggot their fancy can furniſh; I will tranſcribe for you ſome animadverſions of one of the populace upon P. D's mention of the word party. 'That there has long been a party in the province, who have by their artful and repeated efforts endeavored to introduce arbitrary and deſpotic power, and that they have at length nearly effected it, is, I believe, notorious to all the judicious and unprejudiced part of the community. It is from the machinations of this party, that the peace and tranquility of the province has been diſturbed for a number of years paſt; and there is reaſon to fear that the ſpark firſt enkindled by this deteſtable cabal, will produce a flame which will finally conſume the moſt glorious empire the world ever ſaw. Can any one be at a loſs at this time to point out the men who firſt laid the plan for taxing America? Were not governor Bernard's letters, dated ſo long ago as 1764, left in the council-chamber, with a declaration that they there lay for the peruſal of any who deſired it? Did not thoſe letters recommend a parliamentary tax on America, and expreſly declare, that America could bear conſiderable taxes and duties? Was not the ſtamp act bro't on the carpet in parliament ſoon after theſe letters arrived in England? And after it had paſſed, and thrown the continent of America into a flame, did not Richard Jackſon, Eſq; late agent for this province, and member of parliament, declare in the houſe of Commons, that both Mr. Bernard and Mr. Hutchinſon had exerted their utmoſt influence to have it executed here? Who were Bernard's choiceſt counſellers—Who applied for further taxacts and a board of commiſſioners—Who procured troops to enforce obedience to unconſtitutional revenue-laws and taſk-maſters—Who ſtep'd aſide from the plain path of duty to aid the troops with his ſage advice, in forcing quarters in the Manufactory-houſe—Who upon the delightful view of troops ſurrounding our ParliamentHouſe, "with Cannon pointed at the door," toldCommodore Hood in preſence of two of his Majeſty's Council, that the town was unſafe without them—Who tamely and with a kind of ſatisfaction tolerated their druming and fifing in the town-houſe, when the Superior Court was ſitting there, to the almoſt total interruption of buſineſs, and the treaſonable proſtitution of the dignity of the court, and of the Law; and in a word, who, ever ſince the departure of Bernard, has been verifying what he wrote concerning him to Lord Hillſborough, that he could depend upon his firmneſs as much as on his own? Theſe are the men, this is the party who have by their artful and repeated efforts been inceſſantly endeavouring to introduce an arbitrary government into America, on the ruins of the ancient free conſtitutions of the ſeveral colonies. Theſe are the perſons who have bro't upon themſelves the juſt indignation of the people of this province, called by this writer with a characteriſtick ſneer, the populace, as their manly exertions are alſo termed by him the effects of a political enthuſiaſm. And tho' conſcious of all theſe violent attacks, or rather one continued attack on our juſt rights and liberties, this writer has the confidence to tell us there was "no deſign to enſlave us." Were it not too ſerious a ſubject, it might at leaſt induce a ſmile of contempt, to ſee the good people of this province addreſſed in this manner from year to year, with the ſame almoſt unvaried nonſenſe; as argumentative and perſuaſive as to ſay, 'your monies are taken out of your pockets without your conſent; and becauſe you have murmured at it, you have a fleet and army, the one in your principal caſtle, and the other hovering round your capital, to awe you into ſubmiſſion, a tame and abſolute ſubjection to the ſovereign will and pleaſure of your cruel exactors.' You are all put into a ſtate of dureſs, robbed, inſulted, murdered, and cruelly prevented obtaining a legal and conſtitutional redreſs—Nay the fathers of the people, the grand inqueſt of the province, are themſelves treated with an indignity too humiliating to be mentioned without the keeneſt reſentment, baniſhed from their ancient, legal and conſtitutional ſeat, and ſneered at for calling themſelves his "Majeſty's commons:" However I confeſs they received in this caſe no more than a reaſonable return for too complaiſant an expreſſion, which as it was the firſt, will I hope be the laſt of the kind. Thus you are abuſed, and then tantalized, by the elegant P. D, who tells you there is no deſign to enſlave you, or at worſt ſhould there be, it would be very impolitic to attempt an emancipation, leſt peradventure we might become a prey to another ſtate. Inviting rhetoric indeed! Submit, ſubmit Americans, to the ſlow torture of a million tyrants, rather than by one generous ſtruggle diſturb their repoſe by a well deſerved utter extirpation!

FELTON.

LONDON,

March 30. A correſpondent ſays, "the diſturbance which has been occaſioned by the printing a few ſpeeches of the Members of the Houſe of Commons, reminds me of an anecdote which I have heard of the late Mr. Pelham. A motion was, in his time, made by ſome hot-brained Member, to proſecute the printers of ſome of the magazines, for publiſhing ſome ſpeeches ſaid to be made in Parliament. But Mr. Pelham, who had a little more wit than either Col. Onſlow, or his Couſin and nameſake, quaſhed the motion with the following obſervation: "Let them alone (ſaid he) they make better ſpeeches for us, than we can make for ourſelves.

To whatever pitch the liberty or the licentiouſneſs of the people of England is grown, whoever takes a retroſpection of the parliamentary debates, will be convinced that the boldneſs of the preſent ſpeeches of the minority exceeds (beyond competition) every thing, in that particular, that has been uttered in any preceding period whatſoever.

A noble Duke, who had impaired his fortune by gaming, ſince his arrival from his travels, at one ſitting laſt week, won from a brother Peer, no leſs than 100,000 l. together with the Peer's carriages, horſes, &c.

April 2. The following Addreſs of the Portreeve, Bailiff, and all the principal Inhabitants of the Borough of Honiton, in Devonſhire, has been tranſmitted to Sir George Young, Bart, and the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor of this City, their Repreſentatives in Parliament.

To Sir GEORGE YOUNG, Bart. and BRASS CROSBY, Eſq;

'GENTLEMEN,

'We the Portreeve, Bailiff, and principal Inhabitants of the Borough of Honiton, think it our indiſpenſible Duty to return you, our Repreſentatives, our warmeſt Thanks for your diſintereſted and unbiaſſed Conduct in Parliament, in Defence of our ineſtimable Liberties and conſtitutional Rights, as nothing is more dear to us, or could have rendered you more worthy of our Regard, and the Continuance of our Approbation, than the Part you have avowed and ſupported in Maintenance of thoſe invaluable Privileges.'

We beg Leave therefore to aſſure you, that your inflexible and uninfluenced Perſeverance in the ſame glorious Cauſe, will ever render you moſt worthy of our Eſteem, and entitle you to our future Confidence, in Defiance of every undue Art which may be ſuggeſted as a Motive to ſhake our Reſolutions. We are Gentlemen, &c.

Your moſt humble Servants.'

LORD MAYOR's Anſwer to the Addreſs of the Portreeve, Bailiffs and Inhabitants of the Borough of Honiton.

GENTLEMEN,

I Had the honor this day of receiving from you the nobleſt teſtimony of your approbation of my conduct in Parliament; that ſacred truſt I have always conſcientiouſly diſcharged. I have, in that ſtation, ſolely conſidered myſelf as intruſted by you to be a guardian of the invaluable Liberties, which this nation enjoys beyond any in the world. With anguiſh I have ſeen them attacked and violated of late in the moſt deſperate manner, and the wicked plan of deſtroying this Conſtitution ſeems now to be purſued with the utmoſt rigor. But whatever the profligate attempts of our enemies may be, they ſhall find in me a zealous and intripid aſſerter of the Liberties of this kingdom, a warm friend to the Conſtitution as by law eſtabliſhed, and that I am on every occaſion devoted to your ſervice.

I rejoice to find that all the undue arts to warp your integrity have been ineffectual; and I hope that in the ſevereſt trial I ſhall approve myſelf worthy of the ſupport of Gentlemen, whoſe public virtue is proof againſt every ſiniſter attempt, or open attack.

I am, with the utmoſt reſpect and gratitude,
Your faithful and obedient ſervant,
BRASS CROSBY.

From the Tower, April 2, 1771.

April 5. This day the Rt. Hon. the Lord Mayor was brought, in a private manner, to Lord Chief Juſtice de Grey's, in Lincoln's-inn-fields by virtue of a writ of Habeas Corpus; when, after hearing counſel, the Lord Chief Juſtice was of opinion that he ſhould be recommitted as the parliament was not prorogued. The counſel, were Mr. Serjeant Glynn, and Mr. Lee, of Lincoln's-inn.——Mr. Alderman Oliver, was carried before Lord Mansfield, at his chamber in Serjeant's-inn. The counſel, as alſo his Lordſhip's opinion, were the ſame with that of Lord Chief Juſtice de Grey's. They were attended by the committee appointed by the city for conducting the affair of the Lord Mayor and Mr. Alderman Oliver.

The cabinet has met every night this week; and the general report is, that deciſive meaſures are ſtill undetermined.

The chief that draws the people's attention at preſent is the fate of the Lord Mayor and Mr. Oliver. It is ſaid, that a motion will be made on Tueſday that they ſhould be diſcharged, and that it will be agreed to: Others ſay, that the H. will proceed with rigour.

Although the reports of war ſtill prevail, yet ſtocks are getting up again—Bank ſtock was to day 150½ and India 233.

It is ſaid that the committee of enquiry into the cauſes of the riots, have not been yet able to make any diſcoveries.

The continuance of the tranquility of Europe depends upon the anſwer of the court of St. Peterſburgh to Prince Lobkowitz, the Auſtrian ambaſſador, lately diſpatched from Vienna. This ultimatum is, that Ruſſia ſhall grant peace to the Ottomans, by permitting things to return to the ſame ſituation as before the war. On the other hand, the King of Pruſſia inſtigates the Ruſſians to continue their operations; and promiſes that, ſhould the Auſtrians take part with the Turks he will fall upon Bohemia & Saxony with all his forces. This being the ſituation of politics in the eaſt of Europe, there can be but little doubt of the flame being kept up for another campaign. The emperor, it is thought is too prudent to riſque the loſs of a part of the heriditary dominions of the houſe of Hapſburgh for a piece of invidious revenge againſt the Ruſſians; upon whoſe late ſucceſs both he and his mother look with very jealous eyes.

A French Jeſuit, under the direction of the court of Verſailles, manages the cabinet of Vienna; the reverend Father having inſinuated himſelf into the good graces of the Empreſs, who is become a bigot.

It is ſaid that the Commander in chief, lately ſailed to take poſſeſſion of Falklands Iſlands is furniſhed with a diſcretionary power to act according as he finds the diſpoſition of the Dons towards literally fulfilling the late convention. The countermanding order ſome time ſince ſent for immediate ſailing, was only occaſioned till theſe orders and particular inſtructions were compleated.

LONDON, April 6.

This day at high Change, two carts, attended by a great mob, paraded the Strand, Fleet ſtreet, and Cheap ſide. In the firſt cart ſat Jack Ketch, as it were guarding ſome paintings and paſteboards, which were ſupported by a wooden frame fixed on the cart.—On the back of three paſteboard figures theſe words, "A letter of Thanks". After him came Halifax, and Harley, the latter of whom was repreſented in an Alderman's gown; each having a night-cap, and being drawn with grievous countenances, as if going to carry their accounts to the other world.

In the ſecond cart ſat another Jack Ketch, guarding ſome figures with ſorrowful countenances, drawn by ſome perſons that ſeemed well acquainted with the attitude and dreſs of the undermentioned names, which were depicted on the backs of four figures; viz. Jemmy Twitcher, De Grey, Lutterell the Uſurper, Cocky Onſlow. An hour after this proceſſion, the right and true laſt dying ſpeeches of the malefactors executed on Tower-hill, were cried about the ſtreets.

The Lord Mayor, Mr. Alderman Oliver, and ſeveral other gentlemen looked over the Tower wall to ſee the execution.

We are deſired to aſſure the public, that Lord North, from the beginning, diſapproved of George Onſlow's motion, but was out-voted; and now, that he has plunged ſo far into the current, he muſt gain the further ſhore or reſign; the latter of which he is, by no means, inclined to do.

The Empreſs Queen has ſignified in form to our court, that in caſe of a rupture on the continent, ſhe will not become a principal in a war in defence of Flanders; the revenues of that country not being adequate, in any degree, to the expence of one campaign: It is therefore highly probable, that the French will be ſoon in Poſſeſſion of all the Sea-Ports of the Auſtrian Netherlands.

WILLIAMSBURGH, May 2.

Laſt Saturday Night one Franklin of Henrico County, and his Wife, went to a Frolick in the Neighbourhood, leaving four Children at home; and when they returned, about Midnight, they found the Houſe, and all the Children reduced to Aſhes.

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.

Capt. Wicks in 7 weeks from Gibralter, informs that there was at that place ſix ſhips of the line, and three frigates, but the late diſturbances being blown over, five of the men of war and one frigate, were preparing to go home again.

SALEM, May 21.

By ſome fiſhing Veſſels, arrived at Marblehead laſt Week, we learn, that a Schooner belonging to Capt. John Glover, of that Place, was run foul of by another, on the Banks, and ſo much damaged that ſhe ſoon ſunk; but the Men, with ſome Fiſh, the Sails, Anchors, Cables, &c. were ſaved.

HARTFORD, May 14.

Laſt Thurſday the annual General Election of the Governor and Company of this Colony met at this Place, when the following Gentlemen were duly elected, viz.

The Hon. JONATHAN TRUMBULL, Eſq; Governor.

The Hon. MATTHEW GRISWOLD, Eſq; Dep'y Governor.

PROVIDENCE, May 18.

We hear from Warwick, that on Wedneſday laſt, about Twelve o'Clock at Noon, they had a very ſmart Thunder Storm in that Town; the Lightning ſtruck a large Tree near an Anchor-Shop belonging to Meſſieurs Nathaniel Greene and Company, ſplit the Tree to Pieces, then following the Roots, ran through a Stone Wall into the Shop, ſtruck the Bellows-Pole, and knocked down two Men and a Boy that were at Work in the Shop, Several Bricks were forced out of the Chimney, and drove with great Violence againſt the oppoſite Side of the Shop, reducing them almoſt to Powder.—The Perſons that were hurt are ſince recovered.

BOSTON, May 27.

DIED.] Laſt Monday, Mr. Edward Marion, Blackſmith.—Wedneſday, Mrs. Balch, Widow, aged 71.

Tueſday laſt the Body of a Man was waſhed aſhore at the Bottom of the Common, which, by being ſo much deſtroyed, was thought to have been in the Water ſeveral Months. The Jury of Inqueſt judged that it was a Seafaring Man, and probably drowned in attempting to ſwim from a Man of War.

This Morning died at Charleſtown, Edward Sheaff, Eſq; Commiſſary-General.

Charleſtown, May 25, 1771.

LAST Wedneſday fe'nnight died, and on Saturday following were decently interred the Remains of Mrs. JOANNA JENNER, Relict of THOMAS JENNER, late of Charleſtown, Eſq; deceaſed, whoſe Love of Religion which aroſe from ſuch Sentiments as ſhe thought moſt conformable to the Holy Scriptures inſpired her with a Love to God and the World of Mankind, which was exemplified in Acts of Charity extenſive as her Ability.

To the Court Scribblers.

TO find Majeſty and Excellency reduced to ſuch a pitch of infamy that neither the National Treaſury nor the American Revenue Cheſt can produce more plauſible defenders than Cinna, Slyboots, the parodizing Weaver, Impavidus, Verus, and Publius, argues ſo deſperate a cauſe, that common generoſity would ſcorn the moſt ludicrous triumph over it. I muſt therefore conciſely inform you, Gentlemen, that your Heroes have been openly accuſed with being the accomplices & abettors of robbers & murderers; and endeavoring to render themſelves abſolute, and enſlave the people. This you muſt either bravely vindicate, fairly refute, or drop your ſilly engagement to reconcile a wiſe and brave people to ſlavery, i. e. to be trampled upon and gored by ſuch Long-eared and horned cattle; for aſſure yourſelves a further encouragement to peſter the world with your ſtupid and unmeaning declamation will not be afforded by the notice of LEONIDAS.

LONDON, April 2.

On Wednesday a city clergyman, after these words in the Litany, "for all prisoners," added, and for the worthy Alderman now in the Tower."

Extract of a Letter Dublin, Feb. 28.

"There were terrible mobs both yesterday and today. Lord Townsend was hissed and hooted from the House to the Castle, and mud thrown at him; to-day the mob, to the amount of near 10,000 unhappy wretches (who were most of them industrious tradesmen, until they were reduced to beggary by the last prorogation of Parliament) assembled with various weapons to swear the Members to be true and honest to the trust reposed in them; some Bishops were very roughly treated, particularly Fernes Craddock, Lord Annaly and Lord Justice narrowly escaped; the army has been round the House the whole day, and the Members seemed in custody of the Lord-Mayor; all those who are supposed friends to the country they know to be so much injured, were duzza'd and hooted wherever they passed, and that without any distinction of their being connected with any particular set of men; our news and worthy Scotch Commissioner, Allen, escaped luckily; he was sought for with eagerness by the mob. In short there never was seen such a scene, and, I hope, never to see people drove to such another again; the miserable creatures are half-starved, and think their misery owing to the impolitic measures of an imprudent administration——it should be remembered, that necessity has no law."

When an Irish Mob are at the Height, their Method of preventing the Military acting against them is singular and very political; they secure the Sons of several Nobility, and placing them in Front, march thus wherever they please, always facing the Military. When the Guards are sent home they release these their several Hostages, and get others when Occasion serves. This happened in Earl Harrington's and the Duke of Dorset's Administration.
